

2024 NCRAL NL Editor Award

- This year's recipient:
 - Effective tag team
 - Heavily involved in all activities at EIOLC
 - Club photographers
 - Both have served in various leadership positions including president and committee chairs
 - Greg is chairperson of the EIOLC committee & liaison for Linn County Conservation
 - John conducts presentations to most school and scout groups
 - Operate the 24" Boller & Chivens scope
 - Extensive knowledge of objects
 - Regular columns on updates, photos, group visits, national stories
 - John & Greg are heavily involved with activities they write about in The Prime Focus

Greg Frohner &
John Leeson

Cedar Amateur Astronomers

This year's recipients of the 2024 NCRAL Newsletter Editor Award are Cedar Amateur Astronomers' Greg Frohner and John Leeson. The Newsletter Editor Award is given to honor a club newsletter editor(s) who demonstrates outstanding service to their club by documenting club activities, observing sessions, meeting minutes, club projects, feature articles by club members and astronomy related news from around the world. This award seeks to honor this critical service that otherwise might go unrecognized. The above slide, shown at the NCRAL 2024 Conference in DePere, WI, details the impressive list of accomplishments by this year's co-editors John Leeson and Greg Frohner for their work producing The Prime Focus newsletter. In addition to doing an outstanding job as editors, Greg and John are deeply involved with all aspects of CAA's club activities. This brings a unique, first-hand perspective to many of their newsletters. Congratulations to John and Greg for receiving the 2024 NCRAL NL Editor Award.

Alan Sheidler

Alan Sheidler, NCRAL Chair